Irresistible Play Spaces: Sherry Hutton & Donna Burns

‘No Play, No Learning – Know Play, Know Learning’. Together Sherry and Donna run ‘irresistible ideas for play based learning’, a blog designed to inspire and assist parents, tertiary students of the early childhood sector and teachers who follow a developmental curriculum.

While teaching preschool together for many years in Melbourne, Australia, they followed the mantra “Make it Irresistible”. As it is not always easy to find exciting, irresistible and appropriate ideas for children in the early learning years, they decided that they would like to share with everyone some of the ideas their students have enjoyed over the years through their very visual blog. Sherry and Donna regularly run workshops for teachers' groups, conferences and professional development days on a wide variety of educational topics.

Serious Fun with LEGO Education – Libby Moore

Construction facilitates a naturally positive learning experience. As children actively construct things they build knowledge and understanding in their minds. In this LEGO Education workshop teachers will see how presenting children with a problem or a challenge to solve with DUPLO or LEGO, will encourage imagination, problem solving and cooperative learning skills.

Libby has been involved in Education for over 20 years. As a LEGO Education consultant she has inspired teachers to use LEGO resources to motivate children to play an active role in their own learning process.

Music for Learning – Heather Monro

Heather is conducting two different workshops.

Workshop 1- Music for life: Music for developing foundation skills; The importance of music and movement and developing essential learning areas – motor, language, visual and creativity.

Workshop 2 - Fresh, Fun Music for young Children.

(Fun, multi sensory learning - developing essential movement skills, including physical, visual, linguistic, aural and musical; extending memory, creative thinking, social skills and music that supports learning - moving with the beat, understanding rhythm and utilizing melody).

Heather Monro [Dip Tching IECD, Grad Cert Orff Schulwerk (Melb) Director of Kids Music Company, Australia], has taught kindergarten for 30 years and has been running KMC since 2002 in Australia. She runs teacher's and children's workshop, and also presents at different conferences around Australia. Kids Music Company is a New Zealand based company with global offices in Australia, Britain Hong Kong and Singapore. Award winners for Quality educational music 2003 to 2009.

"Wrigglers, Fidgeters and Distractible kids - why do they do it and how can we help!" – Kelly Powell

This workshop looks at sensory processing and the impact on behaviour. You will look at some important sensory systems (including several which you may know little about) and learn how they impact directly on how children behave. It is essential that all children have an optimal level of arousal so that they can process what's happening internally and externally. This helps them adapt to changes in the environment and to learn and develop new skills.

Strategies and things that we can do will also be discussed.

Kelly Powell has been a Paediatric Occupational Therapist for more than 20 years. She has worked in a range of settings in Australia, the UK and USA. Kelly currently has her own private practice in Geelong (Amazing Kids OT) and also lectures at Deakin University. Kelly has given many workshops around the state on Sensory Processing and its impact on behaviour.

Yogaplay and Relaxation for Young Children [3-6 years] - Gary and Carol Creees

Gary and Carol will be taking two separate workshops.

Workshop 1: Yogaplay

For teachers interested in introducing the benefits of yoga into a classroom setting with children 3-6 years; yoga poses & sequences can be a playful, non-competitive way to aid children's need for strength, flexibility, balance, co-ordination and relaxation.

Our emphasis in this workshop is on creative play & varied movement activities. Simple object and animal postures are used in songs, simple sequences and stories. The movement ideas are balanced with massage and relaxation ideas to support calmness, focus, and good health for young children.

Workshop2:BrainDance

Movement milestones for fun & learning (3-6 years)
BrainDance, from a body of work by Anne Green Gilbert, describes eight movement patterns to reflect the movement milestones that humans move through in the first year of life, to "wire the central nervous system so the brain can operate to its full potential" (Gilbert).

The underlying assumption in BrainDance is that movement is a child's first language and the more eloquent he or she becomes in this language, the quicker they develop powers of expression, reading and writing skills and higher cognitive thinking.

We will revisit these movement patterns through music; in songs, rhymes and dances, to assist brain function and promote optimal learning for young children. Moving through the BrainDance patterns on a regular basis ensures all movement milestones are well established in the brain's wiring. This helps with pre-reading skills and can be used as a focus tool before activities that demand concentration.

Carol & Gary are early childhood music & movement educators providing professional development training for early childhood teachers and carers in a range of topics. Both Carol and Gary have degrees in psychology, sociology and a diploma of education. Carol has a Masters in Early Childhood Studies specialising in music and young children's development. Gary is also a qualified yoga teacher and has trained in other wellbeing modalities

Learning Stories - Juineta Kirby

There can be a great deal of fun and sharing when Learning Stories are incorporated into a programme. Staff, parents and children can benefit from the experiences and of course they are relevant to The Early Years Framework. Juineta's background in the Reggio Emilia and Rudolf Steiner teachings and over 30 years of involvement in the early childhood sector are important underlying threads in this presentation.

Juineta Kirby is well qualified to speak on Early Childhood matters. As well as her many academic qualifications, Juineta comes with a wealth of rich and varied life, and work, experiences that will underpin what she has to share at this workshop – including being a 'National & Victorian Awardee 'National Excellence in Teaching Award' – 2004.
